The World Health Organization says Ebola in this outbreak is far more severe than any in the past, with nearly 8,000 cases and 4,900 deaths. But the government of Sierra Leone is struggling to contain the virus, as international volunteers depart for other crises and the economy of the West African nation is deeply damaged. Aid groups say the number of people dying in Ebola is likely to rise in the coming days. "The outbreak is getting out of hand. We are getting a bit worse with each passing day," says Kennedy Krendy, a nurse who has lost 10 patients to the virus. Mariya Stachova Mariya Stachova (; born 4 July 1993) is a Belarusian ice dancer. With Akim Gavrilov, she is a 2014 Winter Olympics alternate. Earlier in her career, she competed with Gennady Kotau. Career Stachova began skating in 2001 in Minsk.
